

Brothers Become Ministers

Hot Springs June 7 — (AP) — Two grandsons of a Methodist minister here yesterday became Methodist ministers themselves here yesterday.

The Rev. Robert Bowen Moore, 35, and William A. Moore, 33, both of Arkadelphia, Ark., were accepted by the Methodist Little Rock conference "on trial."

The Moores are sons of Dr. R. B. Moore, superintendent of the Arkadelphia district.

Their grandfather also is R. B. Moore, and their great-grandfather Dr. J. B. Withers, were Methodist ministers who served in Arkansas.

The Moores graduated from Hendrix college, Conway, and now are attending Princeton Theological seminary of Southern Methodist university.

Accepted with them were: Russell L. Shaffer, Gerald Fincher, Elliot B. Goss and Byron Pierce, all of Camden; Charles W. Ashcraft, Farris W. Norton and William W. Barron, all of Pine Bluff; Woodrow Smith of Little Rock, and Hal Rucks, assistant of Monticello.

Proposed Tax Increase Again Delayed

Washington June 7 — (AP) — A proposed $710,000,000 tax increase faced further delay today when the final draft of some sections of the measure may not reach the house ways and means committee until next week.

The committee which has been considering the increase for four months began making its final decisions yesterday, but reached final agreement on only two matters. These were:

1. To increase the effective rate on long term capital gains from 25 per cent to 28 1/2 per cent for corporations as well as individuals.

2. Not to hold the overall ceiling on corporate taxes — normal surtax and excess profits taxes — to the present level of 2 per cent of a corporation's net income. The committee tentatively decided two weeks ago to raise the ceiling to 70 per cent but this figure has not been finally affirmed.

The committee still has to take final votes on a proposed $200,000,000 increase in individual income taxes, a $200,000,000 boost in corporate taxes, a $400,000,000 program of withholding at the source on interest and dividends and a $100,000,000 excise tax hike affecting among other items liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline and certain electrical appliances.

Under the committee's tentative decisions every income taxpayer will find his tax increased by one-eighth (12 1/2 per cent).

Committee members had hoped to complete the voting this week but will be unable to do so if the bill drafters cannot finish their work.

President Truman asked congress for quick action on a $100,000,000,000 tax increase. Now it appears unlikely that a bill carrying a considerably smaller total can clear the house the senate finance committee and the senate before autumn.

Bell, Union Sign Contract

St. Louis June 7 — (AP) — A new contract between the Southwestern Bell Telephone company and district CIO Communications Workers union became official last night when both sides signed it.

Agreement on the contract was reached early Tuesday morning shortly after a strike had started. It calls for pay raises ranging from $3 to $8 weekly for the 51,000 Southwestern employees represented by the union. It also provides for reclassification of 25 types of jobs and raises upward of 21 of the 500 communities served by the firm as far as pay purposes are concerned.

The company serves Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

80-100 Dead in Gas Explosion

Rio De Janeiro June 7 — (AP) — A jammed commuter train hit a stalled gasoline truck near here today and a spokesman for the railroad said at least 80 persons — and perhaps as many as 100 — burned to death in flaming gasoline. Fifty other persons were hurt.

The spokesman for the line — the government's railway Central Do Brasil — said the blazing gas sprays the first passenger car as the engine hit the truck. Then the engines trying frantically to halt his train stopped so that the last car was in the middle of the burning wreckage of the truck.

Tornado Hits Village in Texas

White Deer, Tex., June 7 — (AP) — A tornado roared in from the northwest with "a brilliant flash" and flattened homes and schools in this Panhandle village of 300 last night.

At least 15 houses and the town's two schools were demolished. Many other buildings were damaged heavily.

Only five injuries were reported by the state highway patrol in this tornado-wise area where most homes have storm cellars. First reports said 15 to 20 were hurt and at least 50 houses blown away.

Residents huddled without lights or gas for hours after the storm struck. Rescuers from other towns were hampered by roads made almost impassable by recent rains.

The highway patrol reported early today that "everything is under control."

Some witnesses called it a "white tornado."

Jack Chrismon said "there was a brilliant flash just before the twister hit. I don't know what it was. I noticed the funnel hanging and then watched it move into town."

Ambulances rushed in from Bogert, Pampa and Panhandle. Residents of surrounding towns offered shelter for those made homeless.

An electric generator was set up outside the wreckage of the high school building while volunteers removed school files.

Germans Go on Sitdown Strike

Bonn Germany June 7 — (AP) — A member of the West German parliament went on a sitdown strike today inside the parliament building — as a refuge from the police.

He was Wolfgang Hedler a member of the extreme right German Empire party who walked out on a court in Schleswig-Holstein where he was being tried for alleged slanders of German political personalities.

A squad of detectives was watching all exits to pounce on Hedler if he stepped out of the impregnable precincts.

But Hedler said he is prepared to stay for months to elude arrest.

Cattlemen

sharply and workers have been laid off at packing plants around the country.

Michael Howlett, Chicago regional director of the office of price stabilization, said if the small packers can buy at current prices the big ones should be able to do it.

Cattle prices were mostly steady in Chicago today — at figures he big packers contend keeps them out of the market. High choice and prime steers and yearlings brought $37 to $38. The ceiling is $37 on prime yielding 2 per cent meat.

Howlett said the bulk of the cattle offered yesterday sold for $32.50 to $35.50 in Chicago compared with the $34.20 ceiling for choice cattle.

He cited the comparatively heavy shipments of cattle to the east and said these buyers apparently are confident they can stay within government price ceilings.

"The OPS regulation requires a packer to pay no more than an average selling price for his monthly accounting period. This permits a packer to pay over ceilings for some animals if he can buy others under ceilings to stay within the permissible average for the period."

Howlett said yesterday the big packers are "trying to force congress to eliminate controls on meat."

British Envoys Are Reported Missing

London, June 7 — (AP) — Two British foreign service officials — one the head of the American department — have disappeared amid speculation they might have gone behind the Iron Curtain.

The foreign office announced today the two men have been missing from their homes since May 25.

The two are D. D. MacLean, 38, head of the American department of the foreign office and G. F. De M. Burgess, 40, who returned here on leave last month from his post as second secretary of the British embassy in Washington.

A foreign spokesman declined to speculate on their whereabouts of the two but a search by police and intelligence operatives has been started both here and in France.

"There is no reason to believe that they have taken any official papers with them," the spokesman told questioning newsmen.

As head of the American department MacLean would have a complete and thorough knowledge of top Anglo-American diplomatic secrets. Burgess having served in Britain's Washington embassy would be in a similar position.

The London Daily Express said the two men told a friend they planned to go to Moscow "to serve their idealistic purposes."

The London Daily Herald said

State Righters Talk to McMath

Little Rock, June 6 — (AP) — Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi, a leader of the states rights party conferred with Arkansas Gov. Sid McMath today on plans for the southern Governors' conference in Hot Springs next November.

But Wright, the states rights vice presidential candidate in 1948, Wright said he did not plan to visit former Arkansas Gov. Ben Laney, a leader in the States' Rights movement.

"I came here for this conference (with McMath) and I plan to go back to Mississippi as soon as it's over," Wright said.

Among the others attending the conference were Frank Bane, director of the council of state governments in Chicago, and representatives of the Hot Springs, Little Rock and state chambers of commerce.

M.I.5 — Britain's ultra-secret military counterespionage arm — was hunting the two.

The foreign office issued this formal statement:

"Two members of the foreign service have been missing from their homes since May 25th. One is Mr. D. D. MacLean the other Mr. G. F. De M. Burgess. All possible inquiries are being made."

It is known that they went to France a few days ago. "Mr. MacLean had a breakdown a year ago owing to overstrain but was believed to have fully recovered."

"Owing to their being absent without leave both have been suspended with effect from the first of June."

In reply to questions a foreign office spokesman added:

"We have no information of their whereabouts since they left this country."

A Place for Everything — Including Trash!

Just before the high school graduation ceremony at the athletic field, some folks driving by threw trash out their car windows.

Miss Gilbert, the high school principal, said it was a sight to see: the senior class marching in, and newspapers and paper plates hopping across the grass, right in front of them.

That was why Miss Gilbert hit on the idea of putting a big wire basket smack in the fork of the state highway — just as you get to the athletic field. "There'll be a sign on it saying 'Please Use Me,'" she said, "And soon as we can, we'll put baskets on other corners — to help lick this trash problem."

From where I sit, most people are only too glad to do the right thing, if someone shows the way. Reminds me of how the beer retailers of this state keep their places of business so clean and orderly — co-operating with the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. They show the way — to run a tavern right.

Then in alphabetical order came:

S. S. Col. Werner Baumbach, lawyer turned officer whose troops wiped out thousands of civilians at Simferopol in the Russian Crimea.

SS Gen. Erich Neumann whose extermination force wiped out 353 Jews and Gypsies on the eastern front in a little more than three weeks.

SS Gen. Otto Ohlendorf another lawyer who directed the extermination of more than 6000 persons in Russia.

SS Gen. Oswald Pohl overlord of all Nazi concentration camps and destroyer of the Warsaw Ghetto.

The last to be hanged were Lieut. Hans Schmidt and Sgt. Georg Schallermier two minor concentration camp officials. The last of the men was pronounced dead at 2:30 a. m.

Chiang Must Pay Some Dues

United Nations, N.Y. June 7 — (AP) — Unless nationalist China makes a substantial payment by next January 1 on her United Nations dues, she may lose the general assembly vote that Russia has tried so hard to deny her.

Official records of U.N. finances revealed today that Chiang Kai-shek's government has paid nothing on its membership dues for over 150 or 151 and owes more than half of her 14 assessment.

The U.N. charter provides that a member shall not vote in the assembly if it is financially delinquent for two full years. But the assembly may permit such a member to cast ballots if it is convinced that the failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the member's control.

Chiang's China are not the only U.N. members with unpaid dues. However, U.N. assessments for 1949 total more than $1,000,000 and still uncollected.

The official U.N. report on contributions showed that the Far East region owes in U.S. currency $2,500,000 — in 1949.

The report also showed that the Far East region owes in U.S. currency $2,500,000 — in 1949.

Margaret Hobnobs With the Royalty

London June 7 — (A) — Margaret Truman whirled through a full day with royalty today after spending last evening night-climbing with movie stars.

The President's tourist daughter led off her day's schedule viewing the parade in honor of King George VI's official birthday. She sat in a box with U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. Walter Gifford.

Tonight she will be guest of Queen Elizabeth at a private dinner at Buckingham palace. Among King George won't attend but she will meet another monarch — Haakon of Norway here on a state visit.

Princess Elizabeth Princess Margaret and other members of the royal family will be at the palace affair. The two princesses are expected to go from there to the American ambassador's home in Princess Gate for a dance in Miss Truman's honor.

Last night Margaret quaffed ice water on a night club tour with Joan Fontaine, Spencer Tracy and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. She danced until 2 a. m.

Elizabeth Takes Bows for the King

London June 7 — (A) — London celebrated the king's birthday today without the king—and anyway it wasn't his birthday.

As George VI continued a four-week rest recuperating from influenza heires apparent Princess Elizabeth mounted her chestnut charger Winston to take the salute for the king at the annual trooping of the colors by the brigade of guards.

President Truman's daughter Margaret and hundreds of other American tourists were in the crowd at the colorful ceremony which began over 200 years ago as a sobering up exercise for royal troops.

The king's 55th birthday actually was last Dec. 14. But his anniversary is always celebrated June 30 so that these many will have a reasonable expectancy of favorable weather.

This year however Princess Elizabeth's scarlet tunic and long dark blue skirt outshone the dry but grey skies.

To mark the occasion the king in his annual birthday honors list bestowed three baronies a baronetcy 2 knighthoods and various appointments to minor orders. Among those named were New Zealand's war hero Sir Bernard Freyberg Minister of State Kenneth Younger Actors Godfrey Tearle and A. E. Mathews Actress Peggy Ashcroft and ballerina Margot Fonteyne.

Among the 10000 persons who packed the stands and surrounded the parade ground was Norway's King Haakon dressed in pale blue. He is here on a state visit.

Miss Truman sat in the diplomatic box with U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. Walter Gifford.

Other thousands lined the mall and cheered as Princess Elizabeth rode from Buckingham palace to the horse guards parade ground across St. James park from the palace.

The mounted band of the horse guards preceded her.

Her son and heir, three year-old Charles rode to the parade ground in an open carriage tucked between grand mother Queen Elizabeth and Aunt Princess Margaret.

He waved shyly to the delighted crowd.

Arkansas Girl Takes Honors

St. Louis, June 7 — (A) — Ninety three male medical students bowed in gentlemanly style Tuesday night to a woman who took four year scholastic honors at Washington university.

The high scholar is Miss Margaret Ann Hunt, 24, of Dewitt, Ark., and one of six women who w this year's graduating class. Her dissection at the head of the class was announced at the presentation of the alpha omega alpha prize for the high four year average.

Miss Hunt is one of 11 medical students who graduated cum laude yesterday.

Rita's Attorney Goes to Paris

New York June 7 — (A) — Rita Hayworth's attorney has gone to Paris to represent the screen star in her divorce proceedings against Prince Aly Khan.

The lawyer Bartley Crum left last night by plane to hold a full discussion of all problems involved in the present marital difficulties between Miss Hayworth and her husband.

The actress now is residing in Glenbrook Nev. establishing residence for a divorce.

Crum said one problem to be discussed would be how the couple's 1-month-old daughter, Yasmine could be raised in the United States as a Moslem. Crum said Miss Hayworth agreed to this request by the Moslem prince.

DOROTHY DIX

Slovenly Beau

Dear Miss Dix: What in the world can you do with a man who goes about dressed like a tramp and who is positively indifferent to his personal appearance? I am in love with a man who is clean physically and morally, but when I look at his sloppily old brown pants and his coat and waistcoat that seem to have been assembled from the ragbag, I wonder, if I married him, if he would ever come intolerable. He is very particular as to my appearance, and seems content just to worship me, never dreaming that I long to worship him in the same way.

I have tried in a tactful way to make him aware of his slackness, but his only reply is, "That is why I need you." What shall I do? Swallow my pride and marry him because he is so fine in other ways, even if he is a living example of what No Well-Dressed Man Should Wear?

DISGUSTED D. M.

Answer: Slovenliness used to be considered the hallmark of genius. Perhaps your young man belongs to this class. But make very sure that he is a genius before you marry him for, as a general thing, carelessness about one's personal appearance is nothing but sheer laziness and shiftlessness, or lack of perception and up-to-dateness and all the qualities that make one get along in the world.

He's Too Lazy

A man puts on a soiled shirt in the morning because it is less trouble to put buttons on a clean one. He doesn't shine his shoes because that would require five minutes' work. He doesn't send his clothes to the cleaner or take out the spots himself and press them because that is a little work. Such a man is a slacker by nature, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will spend his life sitting on the do-nothing stool. Judging a man by his clothes isn't as silly as it seems. It is about the best way we have of getting his number.

But, of course, there are exceptions to all rules and there are doubtless men who have all the virtues except clothes sense. So, if you are certain the man has plenty of intelligence along other lines and that his sloppiness is not the result of laziness and stupidity, go ahead and marry him and save your sensibilities by making yourself his valet.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman of 40, in love with a man nine years younger than I. He knows I am older but not how much. When I first met him I told him we were not suited to each other because of the difference in our ages, but he said he didn't care how much older I was. He claims he would love me no matter how much difference there was in our ages. I don't have anything, so he couldn't be after my money. He has proved his love in many ways. He seems to enjoy every minute of the time we spend together. Is nine years too much difference?

SHIRLEY

Answer: While a marriage between two people with the woman so much the elder merits careful consideration and a thorough weighing of all circumstances, it is by no means a matter to be dismissed with a firm "Impossible!" Are you sure you are really in love with this man, and not marrying merely because you are lonesome? Is it certain that he loves you as a mature man loves his mate, and is not seeking maternal solace and protection?

Age as measured in years is not of itself important. The vital concern is the mental age. A man of 30 may be as old in his tastes and feelings as a woman of 40 and it really doesn't matter which has had more birthdays. No man marries a woman older than himself unless she has some quality of heart and mind that appeals strongly to him and he is much less liable to grow tired of her than he is of a young girl whose character is unformed and whose appeal to him is her youth.

As the wife of a man so much younger than yourself, you have a greater responsibility to keep yourself abreast of the times, smartly groomed, and eager to follow your husband's interests.

Before you marry, be sure your fiancée knows exactly how much older you are. Even though he says it makes no difference, the fact should be established to prevent later repercussions.

Dear Miss Dix: I am the mother of five children. My husband and I are devoted to each other and have got along together splendidly.

but the children are driving me into a nervous breakdown. Each one has a different habit and each one has a different way of thinking. I am even having fits and am afraid to leave them alone for fear I shall not be able to take care of them when I come back. I do with such children.

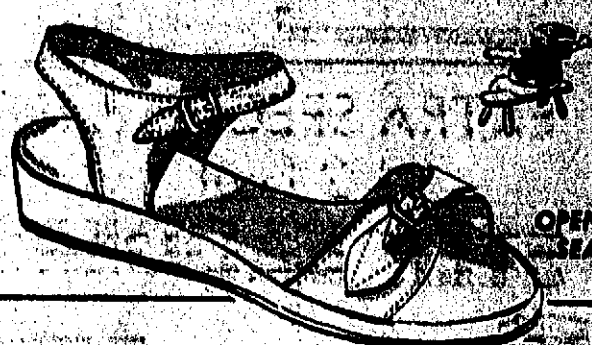

Answer: Separate them as soon as possible. Send one to a boarding school or away from home. That way you will at least save the peace of the household and save your nerves.

Gambler May Be Used to Convict Cohen

Los Angeles June 7 — (AP) — The government hopes it can bring in an elusive Florida gambler today to help convict Mickey Cohen who is showing signs of belligerence at his income tax evasion trial.

The missing witness is one Maxie Raymond. His name was called in the federal courtroom three times yesterday to take the witness stand but there was no response. Federal officials said he had been seen in his building earlier in the day.

U. S. Attorney Ernest A. Tolin said his testimony should be of considerable importance in the charge that Cohen and his wife Lavone cheated the government of $152,48 in income taxes in $4 147 and 148.

Federal Judge Ben Harrison indicated he will send the U. S. marshal looking for Raymond if he doesn't show up soon.

The nattily dressed Cohen who has been in a placid mood throughout most of the trial lost his temper yesterday. He objected to a government agent talking in the corridor during a recess with a government witness Luke Smith, a New York gambler.

"You can't tell this witness how to testify," raged Cohen at the special Agent Dan Godykantz of the internal revenue bureau. Cohen, an ex-pugilist, shook his finger in the agent's face and appeared ready for blows when by standers intervened. Cohen would up by shouting a few epithets at the agent.

Federal prosecutors had varying success in questioning eastern gamblers regarding Cohen's in come and outgo in betting deals. Bookmaker said he won very little in horse race betting with Cohen but paid out a total of $845 to the Los Angeles gambler in 147 and 148.

Luke Smith describing himself as a retired New York betting commissioner said he did business with Cohen for several months in 147 and wound up with the gambler owing him $20,000. Smith said he has still not collected the $20,000.

However Smith's testimony was ordered stricken from the record on the ground that it did not show any Cohen income.

Three other gamblers Morris Lewis New York; Al Zack, an employe of Lewis and Louis Gble Miami Fla. all testified they had dealings with Cohen's office, or associates but would not say positively they ever dealt directly with Cohen.

Government attorneys introduced records to show that one item of Cohen's expenses in 148 was $721.53 he paid an undertaker for funeral services for one of his claim henchmen Harry (Hooky) Rothman.

The government also introduced as expense items three checks for $8.00 and $10,000 which Prosecutor Tolin said represented the gambler's contributions to the Los Angeles police relief association in 148.

Chandler Ready to Quit Baseball
By JOE REICHLER
New York, June — (AP) — Albert B. Chandler is finally ready to bid farewell to baseball at his own terms.

The reluctant to leave baseball commissioner has promised to resign "soon" provided the major league club owners accept a self-provised severance contract designed for his protection.

In agreeing to abdicate 11 months before the expiration of his seven-year contract, Chandler gave the owners the following ultimatum:

1. That he is to be paid in full the balance of his $4,000 annual salary which does not expire until May 30, 1952.

2. That he is to be paid in full the balance of his $4,000 annual salary which does not expire until May 30, 1952.

ITALY'S NEW ARMY—Italy has called upon the U. S., Britain and France to junk World War II peace treaty restrictions on her armed forces and permit her to expand beyond the present 300,000-man limit. For some time past, special instructors, trained at Atlantic Pact training centers, have been teaching Italy's small fighting force how to use arms and equipment supplied by the U. S. Under the military aid program. Here, newly-recruited Italian soldiers learn how to use the latest type of American bazooka at an infantry school near Rome.

Little Chance of Talking With Russia

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 6 (AP) — There was a chance, but there's not much now, that this country and its allies could sit down and talk with Russia about some way of restoring peace to the world, peacefully.

They've been talking about it for three months now, but not really talking about ways of finding peace. They've really only been talking of how they later could talk about ways of finding it.

Now even the talk about talk seems hopeless. By going back a bit you can trace the road they followed to this dead end.

Because the Western nations and the United States, Britain, France and nine others were afraid of a Russian attack, they made a military alliance, the North Atlantic pact, in April, 1949.

Congress voted money for arms for our Atlantic allies but insisted they must work out a unified plan for their defense. They rocked for about a year.

But in June, 1950, communism made its first big aggressive move since that pact was signed. The move was not in Europe, but in Asia, where Russia and some of its allies threw men in to stop its aggression.

It was and is a serious fight and a menacing test of the Allies' unity and their ability to wage war. Their ability to wage war was a lot weaker than had been suspected.

Last September in New York secretary of State Acheson, hit with the foreign ministers of the other 11 partner-nations, and there they set up the machinery at last for really uniting, or working together, on military defense.

It was there too, that Acheson suggested the Allies start some of the Germans and let them take their place in the Allied ranks.

So the start was made and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was appointed supreme commander of this unified Allied military force in Europe.

Then on Nov. 3, Russia, who eyed this Atlantic pact with misgivings, suggested that the foreign ministers of the Big Four — U. S., Britain, France, Russia — meet to discuss the disarmament of Germany.

Right there the word-sliding began. For five months the Big Four, in a high-toned diplomatic way, exchanged notes among themselves on whether there should be such a meeting and what should be discussed.

(Russia said she wanted to talk about a number of things. For instance, on the "unification" of Germany where 18,000,000 Germans live in the Eastern zone occupied by Russia and 80,000,000 live in the Western zone occupied by the U. S., France, and Britain.)

Finally they agreed there'd be a meeting. But not a meeting of the foreign ministers. Just a meeting of deputy foreign ministers who'd draw up a list called an agenda by the diplomats of the things that the foreign ministers would talk about when they met.

On March 3 the deputy foreign ministers Philip C. Jessup represented the United States and down in Paris to begin talking about what the foreign ministers should talk about.

They have now met 10 times. The hair-splitting over words and phrases that went on in these meetings is almost unbelievable. Still, they reached some agreements on what the agenda for the foreign ministers should be. For example: "International tensions," peace treaties for Germany and Austria, and the problem of German disarmament.

But above everything, they disagreed on this: Russia wanted the Atlantic pact placed on the agenda as something the foreign ministers would have to discuss when they met, plus the question of U. S. bases in Europe.

The U. S., France and Britain said nothing doing on this one. In effect, they said the Atlantic pact was a pact between 12 allies and Russia wasn't one of them and they weren't going to put themselves in the position of having to talk about it.

And that one point above all brought up the old question of the chicken or the egg: Was the Atlantic pact a threat to Russia? (Russia says it is.) Or was Russia such a threat that the Atlantic pact had to be created in self-protection? (The Allies say that's the real answer.)

And that's where the four deputy foreign ministers in Paris ran into a dead end. The Paris meeting had bogged down so badly that on May 1, Secretary Acheson told a news conference in Washington that this country had about come to the end of its rope in negotiating with the Russians on terms for a Big Four meeting of the foreign ministers.

Still, in what must have been the last effort to save the whole idea of a peace meeting from ruin, this country suggested last Thursday, May 31, that the four foreign ministers meet in Washington on July 5.

The Russians threw a torpedo in this Monday when they gave their answer, which amounted to this: "Fine, we'll meet in Washington. But only if you agree we shall go over this whole problem of the Atlantic pact and U. S. bases in Europe."

And that seems about the end of the whole effort. It's a stand off, with both sides trying to convince the rest of the world that the other is to blame as a threat to peace and for the failure of a conference on peace.

Several Points Hit by Small Tornadoes

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes high winds and rain swept areas in the south central part of the country today and last night.

The most destructive tornado struck White Deer, Tex., last night flattening 15 houses and two schools. Several other buildings in the panhandle village of 300 were damaged. Five persons suffered injuries.

A twister swept through the farm country in southwest Kansas near Ulysses injuring three persons and knocking down trees and power lines.

Heavy rains brought threats of floods in central Kansas. Hurdett hit was Salina which was drenched with 4.31 inches of rain in less than two hours.

Waurika, Okla., was hit by the third flood in a month. Water from the flooded Beaver and Cow creeks which join in the heart of the southern Oklahoma town of 1000 forced 100 persons to evacuate their homes. Heavy falls also were reported in Wichita Falls, Tex., and Wichita, Kan.

The showers extended northward into the central plains states and the northern Rockies. Only other wet spots were in parts of Illinois and sections of New England.

There was some warming in the Midwest but early morning temperatures in northern states were chilly. Some snow fell in Great Falls and Butte, Mont. Readings were around normal levels in other areas.

Certain European doves nest in rabbit holes, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

West Delays Answer to Reds

Paris June 7 — (AP) — The Western powers delayed again today their answer to Russia's terms for a Big Four meeting because they are unable to agree on what to say.

Deputy foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France met for two hours in the foreign ministry and then sent word to Russian Deputy Andrei Gromyko asking for postponement of their meeting today.

The western deputies are trying to draft an answer to Russia's note of last Monday in which the Soviet government agreed to go to a Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Washington July 23 but only on certain conditions.

The conditions were that the ministers should discuss the North Atlantic treaty and U. S. bases overseas. Western deputies say that is impossible and that Russia's terms therefore amount to a refusal to attend a ministers' meeting.

Threat Fades After Shooting of Officer

Decatur June 7 — (AP) — The threat of additional violence following the slaying of police officer by a striker apparently had subsided today.

Other officers patrolled this northwest Arkansas city yesterday after Constable Lester Kenneth Setser 32 was shot to death Tuesday.

There has been no additional trouble. It wasn't altogether clear whether Setser's death had any connection with a walkout of a group of employees of the Pless Poultry company processing plant.

But Benton County Sheriff John Black and the constable were shot without warning by a striker William E. Cowart 43 after Setser had arrested Cowart to his (Cowart's) home following a disturbance in downtown Decatur.

The poultry company yesterday obtained a temporary injunction against picketing of the plant. Management said the employees walked out — and were later replaced — after the company refused to make a recognition to an AFL-CIO cutters and butchers union without a national labor relations board election.

Union spokesmen weren't available for comment. Cowart was held without formal charge in jail at Bentonville Ark. in connection with Setser's death.

Petitions Filed in Purchase Law

Little Rock June 7 — (AP) — Petitions to refer act 242 of 1951 the "liberalized" state purchasing law to a vote at the 1952 general election were filed shortly before the deadline last night.

Sponsors of the referral said the petitions bore 21408 signatures, 2000 more than the 1025 necessary to get a vote.

Secretary of State C. G. Hall with whom the petitions were filed said an official count would be completed "first thing this morning."

If Hall certifies that the signatures are sufficient in number act 242 will remain in abeyance until after the general election vote. Present purchasing laws will remain in force.

An administration-sponsored law act 242 (thenhouse bill 50) was bitterly fought in the legislature. And later indications that the house vote on the bill's emergency clause had been tampered with led to investigations by the house journal committee and the Pulaski county grand jury.

Verbal battles between opponents who say that the act could lead to purchase without competitive procedures have continued. John F. Wells publisher of the Arkansas Recorder a government mental news digest led the campaign to have the act referred to popular vote.

Red Press Blows About Conviction

Moscow June 7 — (AP) — Pravda and other newspapers today claimed that a great wave of protest is sweeping the United States against the Supreme Court's decision upholding conviction of 11 Communist leaders.

The court ruled Monday that the leaders of the Communist party in the U. S. were guilty of conspiracy to plot the overthrow of the United States government by force. The 11 had been found guilty by a New York federal jury in 14 and were sentenced to prison terms.

Pravda said the court's ruling had set off a mass persecution of Communists throughout the United States.

Egyptians Probe Alleged Deal

Cairo, Egypt, June 7 — (AP) — The Egyptian prosecutor general is probing charges that Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha tried to make a deal with Russia because Britain has refused to quit the Suez canal zone and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

The premier asked for the investigation after the charges were made by his political opponents. The inquiry started May 28, but mention of it was banned by the prosecutor until last night.

A high member of Nahas Pasha's own Wardist party said yesterday Brig. Hagrassi Bey, a former officer in the Egyptian army, and two Egyptian employees of the Soviet embassy have been arrested as a result. The prosecutor general could not be reached for comment.

The charge alleges that Nahas Pasha's overture to Russia was made in a letter to the Soviet minister. The premier says the letter was a forgery.

Guards to Be Used, Lawton Asserts

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—The army will increase its strength within a year by two or three more major divisions and may form additional combat teams.

Army's strength about a year ago was approximately 1,000,000 men. The increase would mean more men. These are voluntary and drafted, some of them now being brought up to date and some into federalized units.

Lawton said the army's strength about a year ago was approximately 1,000,000 men. The increase would mean more men. These are voluntary and drafted, some of them now being brought up to date and some into federalized units.

Citizens of Girls' State Name Officers

Little Rock, June 6.—(AP)—Citizens of Arkansas Girls' State at Camp Robinson voted today for state officers.

Girls' state is set up as a week-long course in government for teen-agers at high school students.

Other candidates include: Martha Dorchway of Fayetteville, secretary of state; Janet Wilbourne of Paragould and Blanche Labort of Helena, attorney general.

Dodie Walton of Arkadelphia, chief justice of the supreme court; Sally Wernette of Fort Smith; Laveda Cherry of Magnolia; Ginger Bennett of Texarkana; Sue Hampton of Stuttgart, associate justices.

Editors Object to Postal Rate Hike

Seattle, June 6.—(AP)—The National Editorial Association objected today to proposed postal rate increases in a resolution passed at the conclusion of its convention yesterday.

Higher mailing costs are being considered in congress and would include newspapers.

The publishers picked New York state for next year's convention. It probably will be in Buffalo.

The convention heard Sen. Cain (R-Wash.) say he believed General MacArthur's dismissal was a "blowing in disguise" on three counts.

Settlement of the For in a question for a long time to come; opposition to letting Red China go into the United Nations and curtailment of Red China trade.

These items, he said, were advocated by General MacArthur.

Bernard E. Esters, 52-year-old publisher of a weekly newspaper at Houston, Mo., was advanced from vice president to president, succeeding J. Clifford Kaynor of Ellensburg, Wash. A. C. Gardner of Crest, Neb., was re-elected treasurer. Kaynor became chairman of the board of directors.

The FORM DIVINE

by HILDEGARDE DOLSON

XXII

GRETEL, chopping coal-slow on the drainboard, was so bemused by the Hurricane collier that she mistook her own finger for cabbage, and gave it a noisy whack. She acted as if Lucilla's bangs had deliberately cut her, and was in a sniffling martyred mood the rest of the evening.

Of the household, only Hoopy was enchanted with the hairdo, so much so that she stopped dabbling her fingers in the goldfish bowl to rush over and pat and poke the curls, sitting on the arm of her mother's chair where she could get a better clutch. At first, Lucilla was grateful for the attention, but she was too keyed up to stand it for long. "Will you stop mauling me with your wet hands? You're ruining my hair."

Hoopy was maddeningly whiny at bedtime. She demanded the presence of a doll named Ermenegarde, pretending not to remember that she herself had twisted off Ermenegarde's head and abandoned her in the park weeks before.

"Mommy's going to give Sniffles away," Hoopy blubbered. "I'll never see him again."

"Why what ever gave you that silly idea?" Arthur sat down on the bed, his voice and body solidly reassuring, and took his daughter's hand.

"Mommy said so."

Lucilla pushed back her bangs frantically, feeling the need of air. "I only said that if she wouldn't go to sleep—it must be after 8 o'clock."

Hoopy burrowed into her father's chest. He said, "Don't you know you have to get a lot of sleep this week so you'll be able to run as fast as Sniffles when he comes home?"

Hoopy's head popped up. "I can already run faster." She glanced at her mother. "You go in the living room and Daddy can sing me to sleep."

As Lucilla left the room, her stiff back indicating betrayal, she heard Hoopy crooning. "One with lots of verses, Daddy. What's the longest song you know?"

When Arthur came out, 15 minutes later, Lucilla expected him to look sheepish. Instead, he said, "I finally got her calmed down. She seemed really upset tonight."

DURING the next week her New You, having started at the top, worked its way down with startling rapidity. The session with Deaful-You's clothes consultant wrought an especially profound change. Just as the Glamour Guides' exquisite bare legs were a constant reminder that You Too can achieve glorious underpinnings, so Mrs. Tendrilly was the dazzlingly chic symbol of You Too Can Look This Way With Clothes On. In fact, Mrs. Tendrilly was so fully clothed she looked as if she never took off her hat and gloves, and at bedtime, over her arm she carried a fur cape, and Lucilla could have sworn it was the same one she'd seen in the after poster.

She listened avidly, as Mrs. Tendrilly suggested to her: "I'd strongly advise you to pad, pad, pad, especially the bosoms. Don't hesitate to wear falsies." At first, Lucilla was appalled by the idea, and said so. Mrs. Tendrilly remarked briskly, "You don't shrink from wearing shoulder pads, do you? Well, then—Gay Deceivers are exactly the same thing. They simply make your figure look more balanced—make your clothes curve in and out as Nature intended. Doesn't that make sense?"

During the first hours of wearing the cushion-like appurtenances, Lucilla felt as if everybody she passed knew the difference. It wasn't until halfway through the evening that Arthur suddenly caught sight of his wife in profile, and grunted with surprise.

In expressing himself on the subject afterward, his argument that the new chest was too big and artificial-looking was weakened by her counter thrust that he hadn't even noticed anything different for hours. "But a husband doesn't look at you the way another man would," Arthur said, with deplorable candor. Lucilla didn't answer this in so many words, but she gave off vibrations that made him uneasy to the end.

ALTHOUGH Derek lacked a husband's prerogative of exclaiming over a new front, he was flatteringly attentive, in that he managed to sit next to her twice at the Eat-Beauty bar, and said her new hairdo was enchanting.

In class, as he sifted literature, art and drama through a veil of generalities, to produce a filmy powder make-up for the brain, his glances at Lucilla seemed to set her apart. When he suggested that the ladies pin a poem above the kitchen sink, "and beautify your minds while you're shelling peas or worrying what to feed your family for dinner," Lucilla interpreted his glance at her to mean, "As if you, with your fondness for T. S. Eliot, would have to bother with such nonsense."

Another time, he said, "If your husband reads mysteries and is also a sports fan, he'll be intrigued to have you tell him at dinner that Sherlock Holmes was the one who introduced skiing into Switzerland."

She thought guiltily that the level of their dinner conversation at home would horrify Derek: Hoopy saying the strap of her skates was too tight; Arthur quoting the janitor's alibi about the garbage being piled out on the front sidewalk. Given the companionship of a man who would play a recording of "Pinnegan's Wake" instead of turning on the radio, or who would invite her to opening nights instead of sitting like a lump reading the newspaper. . .

Man Gets Life for Slaying

Piggott, June 6 (AP)—E. M. Perry, 45, of Cooter, Mo., was sentenced today to life imprisonment for the slaying of his father-in-law last January.

A Clay county circuit court jury found him guilty of first degree murder and fixed the punishment.

The father-in-law, William R. Lewis, 61-year-old grocer of Nimmons, near Rector, was struck five times by shots fired from a passing automobile near his store, Jan. 12.

His daughter, Allene Perry, 41, Perry's wife, also is charged with first degree murder in the slaying and was to go to trial today.

Officers said Mrs. Perry first related she shot her father, but later said Perry was the slayer and forced her to assume the blame.

Officers blamed a long-standing family quarrel for Lewis' death.

The first official American flag was the Continental or Grand Union Flag in 1776.

tail stores and the scarcity will be sharply in evidence next week."

Newsman had asked DiSalle about previous packers' state mental that his price regulation was causing beef to disappear from the stockyards. He replied, just before meeting the President and the cabinet:

"It's simply an adjustment." He predicted the situation will straighten out shortly. He said a completed national survey indicated there is a "comparatively good supply" of beef everywhere, especially of the grades for table use.

Turner did not say what it was in the White House talks that had made him and the other cattle men "very happy." DiSalle, to, refused to comment on the meeting. He told news men last night in New York that any comment would have to come from the White House. And he denied reports that the meeting was an emergency one. It said it was scheduled as a week.

Customers' Corner. Most of our customers don't know all the details of the OPS regulations concerning food prices.

After all, there are quite a few of these government rules, and some of them are very involved.

But we can assure you that the men and women of A&P are wholeheartedly living up to the letter and spirit of these orders as they apply to our operations.

So now, as always, you can buy at A&P with confidence that you will get the same high quality food to which you have been accustomed; and that you are being charged the correct price and getting full weight.

If there are ever any doubts in your mind, please let us know, and we'll be glad to clear them up. Please write:
